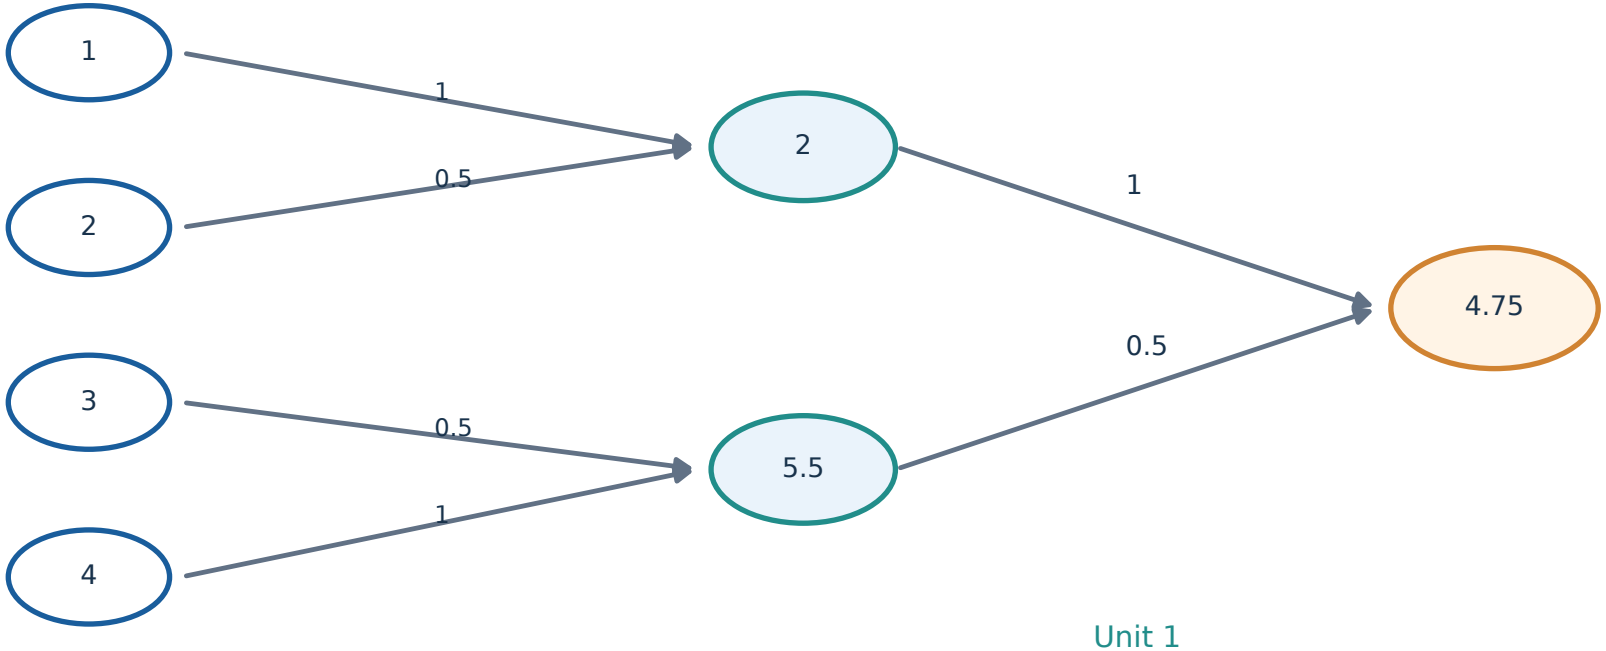
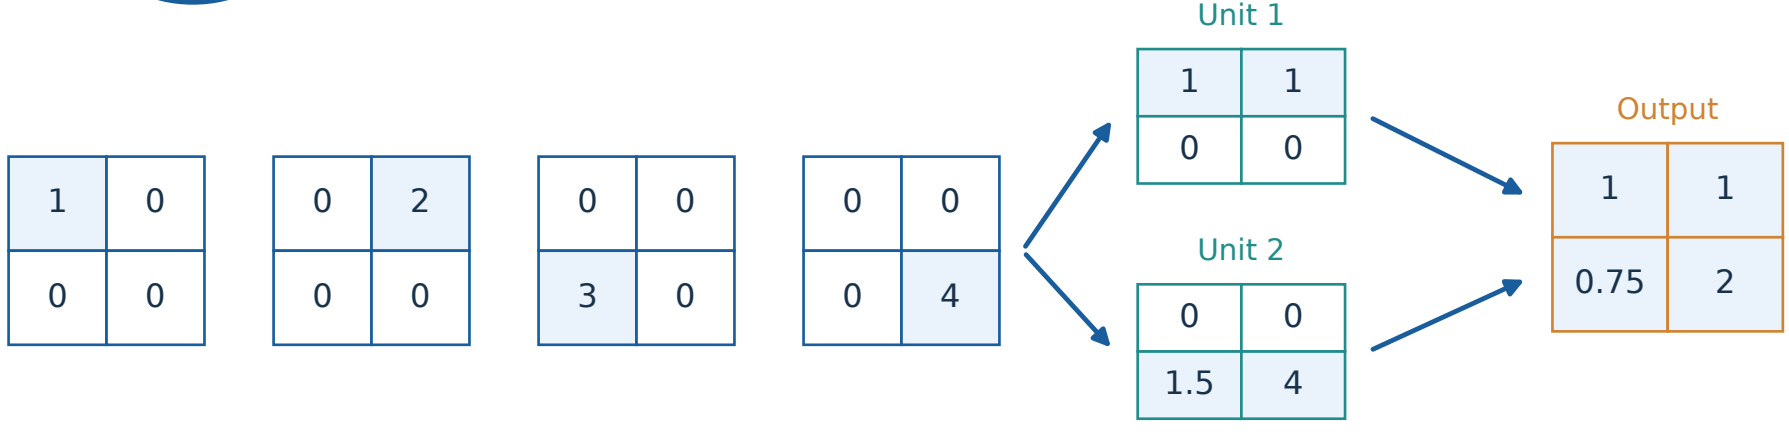
A neuron and its learning image carry different information

Forward values



Learning images



Each hidden unit has its own learning image; both contribute to the output image.